RETURN OF MR. HARNEY.

He Went Away to Seek Employment, and Was Not Drowned.

Mr. Alonzo Harney, who gave Maysville a big sensation a few weeks ago by mysteriously dropping out of his accustomed path among us, came back yesterday afternoon—late, hearty and in good spirits—believing that home, friends and old Maysville are the best things and place on this earth.

In an interview with Mr. Harney this morning he pleasantly told The Leader how he had taken the C. and O. Accommodation at 4:25 one afternoon, determined to seek a location in the West where he might establish his family, and while strolling up a complicity for the future have the additional advantage of good schools in which to bring up his children.

Mr. Harney, continuing, stated he went to Oklahoma Territory and other states near, but finding his ideal place further away and with great obstacles before him, gladly turned his face homeward like the prodigal of old, and through explanation again became the dutiful husband and affectionate father.

His wife and children he found established on the Kreutz farm on the Hill City place.

They were delighted to see him, of course, and after a few words of explanation from him there was peace, contentment and happiness in the Harney household.

He will take charge of the farm.

Some Facts of the Buffalo Fair

Items of Interest to Prospective Visitors of the Pan-American Exposition

This Times-Star says the Chicago Social Economic Club has struck a campaign cry that makes Tom Johnson's "three cent" shibboleth pale into insignificance. It declares that no man should receive less than $30 a day for his labors. We can now look for a "Thirty-Dollars-a-Day-or-Bust" party, which should theoretically sweep the country.

The Courier-Journal a few days ago dealt a sledge-hammer blow at the methods of a number of Kentucky lawyers—some of them—and some of them still living. It said: The California Supreme Court has returned a decision that ought to be carefully considered by those lawyers who become speculators in damage suits. Some attorneys had brought 674 suits against the Southern Pacific for alleged violations of the law requiring railroads to give stop-over privileges to passengers under penalty of $200 for refusal. The damages claimed in these suits aggregated $600,000, and the attorneys had prepared to bring $300 more suits, on their face the claims were entirely valid. The railroad, however, alleged a conspiracy to extort money by laying foundation for these claims. The Court decided in favor of this view. The Judge said:

"No case is found in the law books where an undertaking of this character ever assumed such proportions, and where the spirit of speculation was carried on daily for weeks, months and even years with all the method of a great business undertaking." It was clear to the Court, he continued, that the Legislature intended to give the stop-over privilege to passengers who actually desired it, "but a desire to exercise a stop-over privilege and the desire to lay the foundation for a cause of action by securing the refusal of the stop-over privilege, cannot exist in the mind at the same time."

The Judge's ruling is likely to be felt in future actions in which damages are sought for purely speculative purposes. This case was an exceptional one, but thousands of actions are brought with the same motives and should meet the same fate.

Mr. O. G. Layton is now making his home in Cincinnati with his daughter.

William Adams, aged 14, and son of W. J. Adams of near Dover, died Monday of typhoid fever. Mr. Adams' family, including himself and hired hand, are down with the same disease.

GOLD CHEAPER THAN PAINT.

Why the Dome of the Congressional Library is Gilded.

Baltimore Herald.

It is only natural that the stranger in Washington should comment on the gilded dome of the Library of Congress, which is one of the most conspicuous landmarks of the city, the Washington Monument and the dome of the Capitol being the other two.

Few of those who gaze upon this wonderful creation know that in gilding such an attractive finish to this superb building the idea of economy was considered. It was at first proposed that the dome should be painted in colors to come as an illustration of the care and thoroughness of the late General Casey of the Engineers, under whose supervision the building was constructed. It was at first proposed to paint the dome, and although no color was named it was assumed that it would be either white or gray.

But when the architect decided that gold would not only outlast any paint, but would apparently lighten the top of the immense structure.

In pursuance of this idea, he advertised for proposals for covering the dome and the pyramidal structure underneath the lantern with gold leaf. The lowest bidder offered to do the work for $10 a square foot. It was required that the gold leaf should be twenty-two carats fine under assay.

Discarding the extravagant bids which had been submitted, General Casey purchased the gold, found workmen who knew how to do the work, and applied it, and succeeded in accomplishing the work in a thoroughly satisfactory manner at a cost of only one cent a square foot. The entire cost of gold leafing the dome and the pyramidal base was only $5,000. At the time General Casey estimated the gilding would last at least thirty years. Although it was applied more than five years ago, and has been subjected to the day when the last sheet was put on, the gold leaf is the least expensive covering for the dome, and the effect is beautiful in the extreme.

A MENTAL HINT.

In my article of yesterday, with reference to the change of temperature, rain, wind and sunshine, etc., I mentioned in a single day it is no wonder that our children and friends are frequently taken from us by neglected colds, half the deaths resulting directly from this cause. A bottle of Boecher's German Syrup kept about your house for immediate use will prevent serious sickness, a large doctor's bill, and perhaps death, by the use of three or four doses. Consumption, Hemorrhages, Pneumonia, Nerve Trouble, Croup, or any disease of the Lungs, its success is simply wonderful, and your druggist will tell you. Get a sample bottle free from J. W. Wood & Co., Louisville, Ky. Send for one, 7 cents. Use Wood's Price Almanac.

CREEPING UPWARD

Owing to Rainfalls Up the River the Ohio is Still Rising at Cincinnati.

ABOUT ONE-TENTH OF A FOOT AN HOUR

It is falling from Pittsburgh to below Parkersburg and about stationary at Portsmouth.

A further rise at Gallipolis. Would do much damage. The danger line reached at Louisville Wednesday Evening.

Cincinnati, April 25.—The Ohio is still slowly rising owing to rainfalls up the river Wednesday. The rise is about one-tenth of a foot an hour and it is now believed it will reach 10 feet here.

Conditions are improving hourly at points above Cincinnati, the river being stationary nearly everywhere at that place. The rise is rising very slowly—about one-half of one-tenth of a foot an hour.

The Ohio is falling from Pittsburgh to below Parkersburg. Between Point Pleasant and Catlettsburg it is practically stationary.

The river has reached Water street and the railroad tracks at Maum and Water streets are submerged.

Cells of business houses in the bottoms are far north. An second street are inundated. Little damage, however, results, as nearly all the merchants had removed all perishable goods.

Cells of all the tobacco warehouses are filled with water, but all goods have been removed. Owing to the dampness of the cellar tobacco can not be stored there for months.

The Pittsburgh Coal Co.'s elevator has shut down, and the water is now in the houses along Pearl street.

Reithers park, Columbus, is almost covered with water, and a picnic, scheduled for there Tuesday night, had to be given up.

The river in the city reached a stage of 57.34, early Thursday morning.

The Big Mays is again rising and the crisis at Huntington, W. Va., by no means passed. Heavy rains and melting snow did it.

RIISING AT PORTSMOUTH.

Desperate Effort Made By Authorities to Prevent the Water From Coming Over the Dikes.

Portsmouth, O., April 25.—Portsmouth has made a desperate fight against the waters of the Ohio. It can be said almost to a certainty that the fight has been won. Wednesday morning a report got out that the flood gates would be opened at once, as the water would soon be over the dikes, and hundreds of people hurriedly prepared to move.

Mayor Miltord issued circulars, throwing thousands of dollars of the whistles would be blown three hours before any gates would be opened and there was no danger at present. Gangs of men in charge of councilmen patrolled the flood defenses, strengthening and building them higher. As a result the town was dry Wednesday night except in the outskirts, and it was demonstrated that the water can be kept out.

The water crept in through sewer and engines were stationed at various places pumping out the water. At 7:30 p. m. the river was rising about one-half inch an hour and expected to be on a stand by morning. The damage will be the least in the history of the city.

Gallipolis, O., April 25.—The Ohio river has been about stationary here for the last 12 hours and there is much anxiety because the river does not recede. The river now stands at 35 feet 7 inches and a further rise would do much damage.

Desperate Line Reached at Louisville.

Louisville, Ky., April 25.—The Ohio reached the danger line 28 feet—Wednesday night and at 6 p. m. was rising an inch an hour. The river is expected to reach 30 to 31 feet.

MAHONING FLOOD.

All the Lower Parts of Youngstown Are Under Water. Further Rise is Expected.

Youngstown, O., April 25.—As a result of the flood in the Mahoning river all the lower parts of the city are under water and firemen and policemen are busy taking families from the inundated districts in boats. Many industrial establishments are flooded and several blast furnaces have been compelled to suspend operations. The water has now reached the mark of 1875, which is the worst flood known on the Mahoning river occurred. A further rise of 18 inches will cover the floors of the water works.

The Flood at Niles.

Niles, O., April 25.—The Mahoning river was very high here Wednesday and the wide overflow has caused a shut down of all industries near the stream, including the city water works plant. Traffic has been blocked on the Mineral Ridge and Niles street railway and on the X. and A. road, both tracks being five feet under water. The water is steadily rising and it is feared the principal bridge in this city will soon be submerged.

A BLOODY TRAGEDY.

George H. Bratton, Without Provocation, Killed Two Men and Wounded Two Others.

Portland, Me., April 25.—One of the bloodiest tragedies in the history of Portland, in recent years, occurred Wednesday afternoon on the fourth floor of the building occupied by the New England Telephone Co.

The principal actor in the affair was George H. Bratton, a Boston electrician, who has been employed by the company for almost 20 years. For some unknown reason and without the slightest provocation, while chatting with his fellow-workmen, he whipped out a 38 caliber revolver and opened fire on the party around him. He was evidently an expert marksman, for in a brief space of time he killed one man outright, fatally wounded another man and probably fatally wounded two others. Then he made an attempt to kill Deputy Marshal W. A. Frith, when the officer tried to place him under arrest.

The man who was killed outright was L. S. Farnham, a Boston electrician, who was employed by the New England Telephone Co. Earl Buxton, another victim, died in the hospital at that place. The other two, of Mechanical Falls, and James Wadsworth, of Lewiston, are believed to be fatally injured.

The only charitable motive that can be assigned for the crime is insanity, yet neither before nor after the tragedy did Bratton exhibit any marked evidence of mental derangement.

THE RAILS SPREAD

Passenger Train on the C. & H. & D. Road Badly Wrecked Near Johnson Station.

THE ENGINEER AND FIREMAN KILLED.

Brakeman Weaver and Baggage-master Thompson Seriously Injured and Several Others Hurt.

The Engine Turned a Header and the Baggage Car and Smoker Up-Ended and Fell Over Into the Ditch.

Dayton, O., April 25.—The south-bound Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton limited, due at this point at 8:30, was badly wrecked nine miles north of Dayton, near Johnson's station, Wednesday evening. The accident was due to spreading rails, which let the engine and train turn a header. Behind it the baggage car and smoker up-ended and fell into the ditch. Engineer Patrick Doolin, of Lima, was killed, as also was his fireman, Raymond McElroy, also of Lima. The injured were brought to this city and taken to St. Elizabeth hospital. So far as now known the most seriously hurt are Frank Weaver, brakeman, of Cincinnati, married, left arm crushed and otherwise seriously hurt; George Thompson, baggage master, Cincinnati, married, abdominal injuries, serious.

The Injured.

Sherman, Pontiac, Mich., slightly cut; John Lehman, Hamilton, O., head, face and hands cut by broken glass; Ellsworth Holden, Dayton, O., cut about hands and face; Frank Coles, Sidney, head, face and hands cut; H. Williams, porter of parlor car, Cincinnati, left shoulder wrenched; H. W. Clark, Lexington, Ky., sprained back; A. J. Florini, deputy state fire marshal, Dayton, O., cut about hands and face.

A Speed of 70 Miles An Hour.

The train was flying at the terrific speed of perhaps 70 miles an hour. At the point where the accident occurred the river makes a great sweeping bend, running with the tracks. On the river side is a precipitous bank possibly 25 feet high and on the other side of the hill. Right in the depth of the curve one of the small truck wheels of the engine broke, throwing the great machine into the air. The engine switched over the river edge. The impact of the vestibule train behind, constricting of baggage, smoker, day coach and parlor car, caused the two first cars to be flying tangent over the river where they hung in thin air while the coach and parlor car careened outward at a menacing angle. The engine was turned completely about, the pilot facing the train.

THROUGH THE HEART.

Capt. W. T. Terry, of the Steamer Keystone State, Shot at Parkersburg by Big Cole.

Parkersburg, W. Va., April 25.—There is an unwritten law in West Virginia that any steamboat plying the Ohio river during the time of a flood lays itself liable to destruction or at least some of the members of the crew to being murdered. At 7:30 Wednesday morning Big Cole, of this city, was sitting on his second story porch at his home on Front street here and saw the steamer Keystone State coming toward the city. He went into the house and got his Winchester rifle and came out and waited for the boat. When the Keystone State got within range he fired at the river and the bullet struck Capt. W. T. Terry, of Wheeling, in the heart, killing him instantly. Capt. Terry was 40 years old and had a wife and six children. He had been on the river all his life and on this trip was acting as the carpenter and was repairing the river levee. He was arrested and taken before Judge Thompson and stated that the waves from the boat would overturn several houses and he was protecting his family when the fatal shot was fired.

Will Go Heavily Armed.

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 25.—Steamboats leaving Thursday for the south will go heavily armed, and if their boats are fired on from the shore, the crews will return the fire. The killing of W. T. Terry, a carpenter on the Pittsburgh and Cincinnati packet Keystone State at Parkersburg Wednesday, has increased the determination of the river pilots. Every Ohio river packet and towboat arriving at Pittsburgh this week reports having been fired on by people along the bank who were firing at the waves from the boats endangering their houses during the high water. The matter has been placed in the hands of the government authorities for action.

Makes more cups of better coffee to the pound than any of its imitations

Arbuckles' Roasted Coffee

Is prepared by an individual firm who made their reputation many years ago; who intend to maintain it as long as the people appreciate good, pure coffee, at an honest coffee price. If others imitate Arbuckles' coffee, that's their business; if you prefer an imitation coffee, that's your business. But you'll find that it's economy to pay a cent a pound more for Arbuckles' Ask the grocer for Arbuckles' Roasted Coffee, the original package coffee, and refuse imitations under any other name.

With each package of Arbuckles' Coffee you have a definite part of some useful article (see list which package contains). The article is yours whenever you present a certain number of signatures from the wrappers at our Boston Dept. Look for the list.

Frederick Naser, who was appointed Postmaster at North Vernon, Ind., has been compelled by the Postoffice Department to tender his resignation. Mr. Naser's indirect friends, in order to convert the North Vernon office into the free delivery class and give it two additional carriers, bought largely of stamps. The department, on learning the facts, required Mr. Naser to resign, although it is recognized that he is not nearly as culpable as his friends.

SEEN AT THE MILLINER'S.

Trials That Beset Saleswomen at This Time of the Year.

The time of tribulation has come for the milliner. Given a few days more of warmth and sunshine and all femininity will be buying the spring hats, and wearing them a little later to take the edge off.

In one shop recently a husband, led as a lamb to the slaughter by his wife, an excellent lady, was trying to choose between a hat of blue chiffon and one of white maitre in obedience to her injunctions. He took but languid interest, however, and wore such a gloomy countenance throughout that she could hardly blame her, when he settled on the white as his favorite and pronounced it a "rattier," for promptly taking the blue and making him pay $5 more for it.

In another shop two young women were trying on hats with beautiful impartiality. White and black, blue and yellow—all was material that came within their reach. Finally, when the saleswoman's praises had become effusive and cold, and the last hat had been surveyed from every point of view, as if at first on one girl's head and then on the other's, the couple talked together in low tones and then went out, leaving the saleswoman to her own reflections.

"We can't decide between the violet and the red today," one of them said, "but we'll return tomorrow and give your order, you've been very good and patient."

The saleswoman sniffed contemptuously when the door closed behind them.

"They'll make their spring hats at home, spotted 'em as soon as ever they opened the door. They're out getting ideas and they'll select the most elaborate designs that it would take a French milliner to execute properly, and make a head covering that'll be the laughing stock of their block. Then they'll say it came from our store."

Before a long glass at another place a girl with a square chin was lecturing a bored audience consisting of one tired worker, upon the sin of not suiting the hat to the face.

"You milliners have absolutely no originality," she was saying sternly. "Why should I wear that certain shape because every one else is wearing it? You should consider the shape of your customer's head and face, the angle of her nose, the curve of her cheek. You should!"

"We do," interrupted the listener. "You do not," interrupted the customer calmly. "You advise her to buy the latest shape. Now, I want a hat designed especially for me. It must be of broad brim, tilted slightly in front and on the left side—my hat is new, you see—and brought down on the other. It must be original, smart, characteristic and—trimmed it must not exceed $10."

At this season the milliner must have the eyes of an artist, the tongue of an orator, the patience of Job, and, beyond and above all, the temper of an angel. If she hasn't all these she is very likely to see a host of discontented patrons merrily skipping into the door of her rival across the way.

An Open Letter.

We desire to say that our business since January 1st has passed the mark anticipated. We wish to be frank; therefore we are not attempting to talk to business people and put it in the form of a polished essay. The advantage of having merchandise differ from your competitors is apparent, provided that the retailer is known to be reliable. Does not a good deal of advertising appear to you as though the advertisers were indulging too freely in "fine words"? Most of the time they are not making sense. Nouns are invented for goods that have no meaning whatever to the materials; turned and twisted until they are no longer relevant, all of which is done to tone the product, because the product hasn't enough of it. Fine words make fine words, but fine words do not make fine goods. We are strong believers in advertising because it is a good thing, but advertising doesn't pay unless constructed on a proper basis, and that is to plainly tell people what you have to sell, and sell it as low as is consistent with legitimate business methods.

Our spring importation of Dress Goods, White Goods, Carpets, Mattings and Housekeeping Goods generally is complete. Come and see prices, which will be found to be as cheap as the quality considered. Respectfully,

GEORGE COX & SON,

Serious religious riots have occurred at Niteroi, Brazil, as a result of an evangelist campaign against the Catholics. While a Clergyman was preaching in the evangelist temple Catholics made an attack upon the edifice, intending to stop the services. Serious fighting followed, and many of those engaged were wounded.

The new official flag of the state of Maine, recently authorized by the Legislature, is to be buff in color, with a green pine tree in the center and a blue polar star in the upper left-hand corner. It is from a design by Adjutant General John T. Richards. The background of buff, the old colonial color, will harmonize with the green tree and the blue star, making a most attractive combination of colors.

A warm fight is on at Cora, Pa., over the location of the local Postoffice. Recently D. P. Roberts was appointed Postmaster. The office has been located on the New York state side of the line for 15 years. Mr. Roberts' place of business is located just across the line in Pennsylvania, and he intends to move the office there. A petition is in circulation praying to have the office remain in New York state. The people of the Pennsylvania side of the town are just as anxious to have the office on their side.

China is well stocked with wild animals, some of which are very curious. In the mountains, North of Peking, is found the most Northern species of monkey known, which enjoys playing in the snow, and when grown is nearly 36 feet high. In the mountains of the North is the Siberian tiger, the most magnificent member of the tiger family. In the mountains near Canton is the royal Bengal tiger. Black and brown bears, tigers and leopards are found in all the mountain ranges. In South China is a monkey that has a coat of many bright colors.
